

Good morning,

I just wanted to email to say what a tremendous start the year group made to their PPEs last week. Whilst it has been a disrupted few weeks for many, some of whom are still isolating, the commitment of the cohort continues to impress me.

Government guidelines have been changed for students sitting exams, and the wearing of face coverings whilst they are in the hall is no longer mandatory. The students will be expected to wear one on the way in to the hall, but it is then their personal preference about whether they wear one in the hall. They will still be required around school and in lessons when they come out of the exam.

As always, if you have any questions regarding the PPE process, or any wider queries about your child's progress throughout year 11, please email or call me at your earliest convenience.

Kind regards

Mr Beeching
